THE AMUSEMENT WORLD.

Langtry at Chicago—Gebhardt Has a Rival—The Passion Play, Etc.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—[illegible] Mrs. Langtry and her escort ... followed by Mrs. Langtry's ... Kate ... and the other members of Mrs. Langtry's company ... [illegible] ... during the remainder of her American tour. Miss Langtry was, however, ... [illegible] ... was rumored that Gebhardt would spend New Year's day with friends in New Jersey and go to Chicago Tuesday morning. Neither Henry E. Abbey nor Mr. Tillotson was at the train to see Langtry off. She was looking pale and fatigued and seemed to avoid the gaze of the curious passengers who gathered on the platform and stared at the windows of her car.

The Times says: Shortly before ... o'clock yesterday morning a handsome carriage was driven hurriedly up to the 24th street entrance to the Albemarle hotel, and Fred Gebhardt got out and entered the hotel. He went upstairs to Mrs. Langtry's parlor, and after a few minutes conversation escorted her and Miss Langtry down stairs and put them in a carriage. A maid also got in, and then Mrs. Langtry thanked Mr. Gebhardt for his kindness, and expressed a wish that she might meet him again soon. He responded that he should certainly see her before she returned to New York. The carriage was then driven to the Grand Central depot. There Mr. Abbey received Mrs. Langtry and escorted her to a private car, which was attached to the 1.30 express. She will play in Chicago to-night.

Gebhardt vs. Asay.

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—The World's Chicago special says: Mrs. Langtry will arrive in Chicago to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock. A suit of six rooms has been engaged for her at the Grand Pacific hotel. It had been reported that Fred. Gebhardt, of New York, had engaged another suit of rooms on the same floor, but on inquiry to-night at the hotel it was learned that nothing had been heard from that young gentleman and that he was not on the same train with Mrs. Langtry and her company, as had been rumored. Some of the newspapers of Chicago have been trying to be excruciatingly funny over the Langtry-Gebhardt scandal, and one of them printed a statement a day or two ago that a gilded youth of this city had made a bet in public that he would cut out Gebhardt and induce Langtry to accept an invitation to drive with him before she had been in town three days. The wager, after being attributed to various individuals has by general consent finally been saddled on to James Asay, son of a well known and wealthy lawyer here, who is a collector of rare books. Young Asay, who, like a good many other rather rapid young men, is a member of what is called the "Owl Club," is only 28 years old and unmarried. There is no doubt that the coming of Langtry has caused a tempest in the teapot of the Owl Club aforesaid, but the story about the bet is probably a canard. Asay himself denies it positively. No one has yet been able to name the other party to the wager if there is one.

The New Metropolitan Opera House.

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Henry E. Abbey has completed negotiations for the release of the new Metropolitan opera house. The lease is for one year with the privilege of renewal. Mr. Abbey has engaged for the opening of the house, the 22d of October, 1883, Mme. Nilsson, Mme. Valeria, and Signors Campanini and Delfiente. The chorus will consist of 100 voices, and the orchestra will number 60 pieces. Mr. Abbey will produce 25 operas. The stage will be the largest in America, having a drop of 100 feet and 92 feet depth, while the full width will be 150 feet. It is not Mr. Abbey's intention to give Italian opera only, but he will produce German and French operas as well. He recently received the following telegram from Mme. Nilsson:

"Accept my congratulations upon your securing the greatest opera house in the greatest city in the world. CHRISTINE NILSSON."

The following from Campanini was also received: "I accept your terms to sing ten times a month for seven months." During January of each year the house is to be let for balls.

The Passion Play.

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—E. Randolph Robinson, counsel for the society of "Juvenile Delinquents," in reply to the question whether he will apply for an injunction in case Mr. Morse produces his Passion Play, said he would.

"Is this Passion Play a dramatic composition?" he was asked.

"I presume it would come under that designation."

"Could he produce it in a lecture room or a church without a license?"

"No, not if it was open to the public. The fact that no charge for admission was made does not alter the matter in the least."

Nilsson and Common People.

CHICAGO, Jan. 1.—The Times, referring to Nilsson's kindness in singing for common laborers in California, says: "This is an exhibition of unusual good nature—a quality for which a prima donna is not ordinarily distinguished. If it is the result of the glorious climate of California, operatic singing birds should not fail to visit that section of the country."

Murdock to Play Hamlet.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 1.—James Murdock, the veteran actor, to-day signed a contract to play Hamlet on Friday night of the dramatic festival here next April, with McCullough as the "Ghost," Barrett as "Laertes," and McVicker of Chicago as "First Grave Digger." Murdock is the first one to sign a contract to appear at that festival.

TROUBLE AMONG THE STALWARTS.

Signs of Political Disintegration—The President Criticized by his Written Friends.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—The stalwarts find themselves edged, politically, out into the cold. Tom Murphy wanders about the city, but is never seen at the White house. Bigliu, Hess, O'Brien and others of the now notorious New York crowd are occasionally here, but if they see the president they do so in the small hours and never make any mention of it, but evidences of the pulling asunder are found in larger fields. John Sherman is having more influence with this administration than he is used to have. The appointment of the ... Olmstead for district commissioner is clearly and openly John Sherman's work. Don Cameron has been obliged to consent to a truce and see erring brother Mitchell received with open arms at the White House and promised a fair share of patronage. Gen. Grant recently refused to endorse the recommendation of an officer, on the ground that it would do him no good ... [illegible] ... Logan plays the administration a very mean trick by securing a lot of good appointments and then hurrying away to New Mexico to let the administration fight its own battle in November. [illegible] ... It would not be surprising if these reproaches should blossom out pretty soon into an authorized publication of ... [illegible] ... If his friends are no better than his practices, we shall not have much civil service reform under Arthur.

Another correspondent says: The reason, as given recently by one of Secretary Folger's friends, for the coolness existing between Conkling on the one hand, and Folger and Arthur on the other, is substantially this: When Arthur became president Conkling was asked to accept the portfolio of state. This he declined on the ground that he was out of politics and ambitious to make money, of which he stood badly in need. "What did he want?" was asked in a tone that indicated ready compliance. "I have but one request to make," said he, slowly and with emphasis. "I want that fellow Robertson kicked out of the custom house." In vain Arthur and Folger reasoned with him. It would be impolitic, they said, considering Arthur's manner of succession, to remove Robertson without cause. [illegible]

THE OLD WORLD.

Death of M. Gambetta, the French Orator and Statesman.

GLADSTONE'S ILLNESS DENIED.

Starvation in the West of Ireland—The Palmer Murder Trial—A Cab in Refugee's Protest, Etc., Etc.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

[illegible] ... Gambetta's ... friends expected his death ... Gambetta was ... [illegible] ... A state funeral is expected to be given. The death of Gambetta created an immense sensation here. Groups gathered in the boulevards ... discussing ... It is reported that he will be buried at Nice beside his mother. President Grevy is much affected by the news. Gambetta died at his residence at Ville d'Avray.

Gambetta left no political testament. He made a private will. Saturday's papers, reporting his death, are selling in every street, and the crowds struggle to procure them. Telegrams were sent to President Grevy and other authorities immediately after his death. Gambetta died in a state of unconsciousness; but in the course of the afternoon he exclaimed: "Je suis perdu!" Il est inutile de dissimuler. Mais j'ai tant souffert ..."

The secretary of state has received the following from Minister Morton, Paris: "The death of Gambetta caused a profound sensation at Stance. In him the government and people of the United States lose a devoted friend, whose great admiration for our country and its institutions were expressed on all occasions. His death is, to the members of this legation, a great loss and a personal sorrow."

LONDON, Jan. 1.—The Standard says an intimate friend of Gambetta says that he became a confirmed hypochondriac. Weariness and disgust at the failure of his prospects may explain much that is mysterious in the life just closed.

Suicide of an Ambassador.

PARIS, Jan. 1.—Count Voli ..., Austro-Hungarian embassador here, who committed suicide Saturday, has lately been in the habit of locking himself for hours. He carried a revolver about with him for a week, and Friday fired it out of a window of the hotel ... a wall of the court yard to test it. The supposition that his suicide is connected with financial embarrassment is ... from the fact of letters he left addressed to a rich Austrian banker living in Paris.

Irish Affairs.

DUBLIN, Jan. 1.—O'Brien, in a speech at Mallow, said he would justify the article printed in the United Ireland, and prove that prisoners in murder trials have been convicted by packed juries.

Healey and Sexton, members of parliament, attended the meeting of the national league, held in Bray to-day. Corbett, member of parliament, who presided, said no city need be late ... in the league. At Trevelyan, chief secretary for Ireland, admitted it was a local organization. ... member of parliament, said he was glad to observe that the assembly was mostly composed of fighting men, by whom he always ... The day might come when they should have to use that force by which every other country obtained freedom. He urged organization if possible in open day. Donnell, also member of parliament, said he would show the government he could not intimidate him. He would be willing to go to jail, where he could study the problem whether Irish politics should be carried upon the platform or in some other place. O'Brien, charged with sedition, ... with ... summoned for defence, ... director of the ... chief superintendent of detectives, crown solicitors and nearly all special jurors in the Loughmask murder case.

DUBLIN, Jan. 1.—The national league meeting, which assembled at ..., Kings county, yesterday, in defiance of the government proclamation forbidding it, was dispersed by a large force of constabulary.

Gladstone's Health and Work.

LONDON, Jan. 1.—Exaggerated reports have been afloat here during the past 48 hours concerning Mr. Gladstone's illness. The truth of the matter is that immediately upon his arrival at Hawarden castle the premier went to work tree-felling with his usual energy and caught a cold, but the effects are believed to have passed away absolutely. At the age of seventy-three of course these little accidents are liable to prove serious at any time, but at present Mr. Gladstone's friends entertain no anxiety whatever. It is understood that the premier is engaged actively on two measures of great importance—the reform of the corporation of the city of London and the assimilation of the franchise in the counties. Both are destined to have a wide effect, and if Sir Charles Dilke enters the cabinet as president of the local government board, Mr. Dodson taking the chancellorship of the duchy of Lancaster, it can be depended on that they are to be pushed through under his immediate direction.

To Play an Important Part.

LONDON, Jan. 1.—It is generally believed that Sir Charles Dilke will be president of the local government board, instead of chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, because his great strength has been lost in a position where no administrative capacity was asked for. The local government department will play an important part in Mr. Gladstone's future programme, and it requires a stronger hand than Mr. Dodson's. Addressing his constituents last night Sir Charles Dilke avoided allusion to all foreign affairs. The most important part of Sir Charles Dilke's speech was where he said that he might have changed his opinions since his first appeal to Chelsea, where he was probably guilty of "wrongheaded utterances." The significant allusion to his early republican speeches causes widespread satisfaction, and will gratify the court party as well as the whig.

Pitiful Condition of the Irish.

DUBLIN, Jan. 1.—The most touching tales are told of the distress and misery of the people in the western districts, particularly in the places where there are hundreds of evicted families without shelter and starving. The information about these is derived chiefly from the Catholic priests, whose own resources are all exhausted and about whose dwellings the unfortunate creatures are gathering, begging piteously for a potato or for a handful of corn meal. There are no members of the human race whose condition is so abjectly wretched as that of the starving people in the west of Ireland.

The National League.

DUBLIN, Jan. 1.—Irish affairs are making little movement. The ... shows that the national league will be reorganized within the limits of the crimes act. There is a great show of developing the organization of the league, but ... is ... lacking.

An Exile's Protest.

MADRID, Jan. 1.—La Iberia publishes a letter from ... Maceo ... protests against his imprisonment, denying ... political prisoner. Maceo relates the circumstances of his arrest in Cuba. He stipulated with the Spanish general, in the presence of ... that he and his companions should be pardoned on condition of their voluntary exile ... Jamaica, and accordingly they embarked on board an English steamer, but the vessel was stopped when ... from land by two Spanish gunboats, and the ... forcibly ... to Porto Rico and afterwards to ... With reference to his surrender by the British authorities, Maceo affirms that the Spanish consul asked the English police to arrest certain convicts who escaped from Ceuta. He protests against this violation of the extradition treaty of 1871.

The Russo-German War Scare.

BERLIN, Jan. 1.—The Russo-German war scare has passed away with ... having any precise indication of its cause. Increasing ... the Vienna paper of ... from the suggestion of encouraging a separate arrangement with Russia.

The Treaty with Mexico.

BERLIN, Jan. 1.—The North German Gazette publishes a telegram from Mexico stating that when the senate adopted the new treaty of commerce and navigation with Germany the ... the operation of the present treaty until June, 1884.

Murderers of the Palmer Party.

SUEZ, Jan. 1.—... of the principal culprits out of the Bedouins implicated in the murder of Prof. Palmer's party have been captured, together with the wives and other relatives of the remaining important criminals who will be held as hostages of the murderers of Palmer and Gill. There is sufficient evidence collected for the trial of the accused.

A Stranded Steamer.

LONDON, Jan. 1.—The British steamer Whitefield, from New York for Leith, stranded at St. Catherine Point last evening in a thick fog. The crew was saved, and the prospects of saving the cargo are favorable. The vessel, however, is likely to prove a total loss.

UMATILLA AND WASCO.

Important Sections of the Inland Empire—Their Industrial Conditions.

CHANGING FROM A STOCK TO AN AGRICULTURAL REGION.

Marvelous Growth of Umatilla County and Pendleton—The Condition and Prospects of The Dalles, Etc., Etc.

Umatilla County.

[illegible] ... Its population, according to the census of 1880, was 9,607, but is believed to have increased twenty per cent since that date. Agricultural lands range in value from $5 to $25 per acre.

Until the past year ... transportation facilities through the heart of the county, but ... its development has been almost marvelous. Now that the O. R. & N. Co. have built one line of railroad between the Columbia river and the county seat and will doubtless construct another line connecting with Walla Walla during the coming spring, it is anticipated that such increase ... in the ... of the county and as a concurrent result that a very rapid settlement of its vacant lands will take place.

The finest portion of the county, and one of the finest bodies of agricultural land in the state, is the Umatilla reservation, containing some 70,000 acres of arable land and a like amount of timber. A bill was passed by the senate of the United States at its last session ... this tract open to settlement, and it is hoped the house of representatives will complete the good work during the present winter. By such an act comfortable homes would be provided for many thousand families.

The town of Pendleton, the county seat, and is a thriving, bustling ... place. By the census of 1880 its population was fixed at 730; a private enumeration made in June, 1882, showed nearly 1300, and it is believed that the white population of the town is now nearly or quite 1400. The town assessment rates valuation of improvements at $289,414, which is about one-fourth of actual worth. ... The growth and general improvement of the town during the past two years has been more rapid than that of any other town in the state, excepting, of course, Portland. During the past season several fine brick structures were erected and many more will be built in the spring. The great drawback to the prosperity of the town has heretofore been the want of building room, but the passage of the bill ... town ... this ... Apart from the very exceptional advantages which nature has accorded to the town of Pendleton, it is blessed with a population of great sterling worth and untiring enterprise, and it must soon be looked upon as the chief town in Oregon east of the Cascades—to that portion of the state what Portland is to the Willamette valley. The town is situated immediately contiguous to and about midway of the reservation, is at the junction of all the great thoroughfares, not only of a local character but those connecting Washington territory with Idaho and the transcontinental railroads, drains twenty miles of country to the north and forty to the south, and is so situated as to be without fear of a rival, present or future. It enjoys the peculiar favors of the O. R. & N. Co., and will be a junction of their main ... branch and the road connecting with the Northern Pacific at Walla Walla. It will be a large supply and shipping point for a vast tract of very rich country, and such magnificent water power which must attract capital in many enterprises before the expiration of ... The future of ... is very bright and certain.

Wasco County.

Second in the list of eastern Oregon counties in point of resources and wealth is Wasco county. It lies between Umatilla on the east, the Cascade mountains on the west, ... [illegible] ... It is ... the Columbia river on the north ...

The affairs of Wasco are so well managed that although a fine county building has just been erected, the county is free from debt and its "scrip" at par. The new courthouse is beautifully planned and in many respects the most convenient in the state, though of course not approaching the Marion or Multnomah courthouses in size. It is a pretty and solid building and has been built economically.

The following figures from the assessment roll have been kindly furnished by the county judge:

	Number.	Value.
Acres of land	237,151	$ 455,067
Wagon road land	116,214	35,650

Wasco is changing from a stock range to an agricultural country. It has good levels of rich land admirably suited to grain growing, and hundreds, almost thousands, of ... and creek bottoms. The latter are well watered and have proved, upon being cultivated, to be highly productive ... The first year farming was carried on to a great ... were large and everybody was encouraged. ... The average yield of wheat to the acre in 1882 for the whole county was above twenty-five bushels ... many places going as high as fifty bushels.

Wasco county is a fine fruit country. The seasons are six weeks earlier than in Western Oregon. ... all the earlier fruits ... and the fruit of Wasco ... All sorts of vegetables grow well and mature much earlier than in the well counties east of the mountains.

The shire town of Wasco county is

The Dalles.

No town in the state has had so many "ups" and "downs" as The Dalles. ... its position at the gateway of the Inland Empire has through a quarter of a century given it a steady business and sure prosperity. The Dalles got its "boom" during the mining excitement many years ago. It was the distributing point for the mines of eastern Oregon, eastern Washington, northern Nevada and all of Idaho, supplying those regions at rates which made "store keeping" a much more profitable business than mining. With the decline of the mining industry, stock raising became the chief business of the Inland Empire, and The Dalles became the ... market ... less profit but in greater quantity. As the country has changed first from a mining section to a stock range, and later from a stock range to a farming region, the character of the business done at The Dalles has changed, but through it all, and in spite of local adversities, The Dalles has steadily prospered.

But The Dalles is now suffering from a change of another sort. Heretofore it has been a terminal point of river transportation. Completion of the through railway to Portland has, so far as general transportation is concerned, left it merely a station. The Dalles can no longer hope to handle, either in its stores or on its docks, the traffic of the region east of it. Its resources for legitimate business is the country south of it in Oregon and north of it in Washington territory. The trade of this region is great and growing, and is now of sufficient volume to maintain The Dalles as a "good town." Such will doubtless be its character for a few years, but a better fate is in store for it. It is destined, in the opinion of the best informed, to recover in good time its status as a river point, particularly for the shipment of Wasco and Klickitat counties ... [illegible]

Trials of a Girl.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1.—Application for a writ of habeas corpus was made a few days ago by ... for the discharge of a young girl, Maggie ..., from the Magdalen asylum. It appeared, on hearing of the case, that the girl had been placed in that institution by her parents. When she appeared in court yesterday Collins failed to appear and the parents stated they would take the girl home if permitted by the court. The judge asked the girl if she had not received letters from a man when in court. She answered affirmatively, and also said that she did not know Collins. The judge ordered her discharge on promise to return home with her parents and as she was going out with them, Collins, in company with a strange woman, endeavored to induce the girl to run away. He was driven away by the sheriff and the girl taken home. It is a complaint of long standing that girls released from reformatory institutions are followed by procurers and officers have been detailed to put a stop to the practice.

A Remarkable Story.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1.—The city of Tokio, on her last voyage from China to this city, brought a passenger named ... Oliver, an American, whose history is somewhat marvelous. When quite young he went into the whaling trade along the Chinese ports, smuggling forming his chief occupation. He had several narrow escapes from pirates, until finally a fight at close quarters took place in which a spear was run through his body entering the left side, below the ribs, and coming out on the right side. He was unconscious for three months and the functions of nature were suspended for three weeks at a time. When assured by the physicians that he must die, he begged them to attempt an operation. The abdomen was cut open and the intestines taken out. In fact, he was completely disemboweled. The intestines were subsequently placed in and the abdomen sewed up, leaving an aperture in the left side where the spear entered, and through this opening nature has performed her functions for the past eleven years.

Trade Prohibited in the Northern Seas.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1.—The Russian consul general of this city has issued orders prohibiting foreign vessels, under pain of confiscation, from trading, hunting or fishing on the Russian coast or islands in Okhotsk and Behring seas, without special permit from the governor general of Eastern Siberia. Vessels of all nationalities, principally American, have been in the habit, while in northern latitudes, of stopping at islands referred to in the prohibition, and it appears to create dissatisfaction on the part of the home government that skins, furs and ivory have been purchased from the natives. It is supposed that by this act the Russian government wishes to prevent any traffic with the islands, other than through its own subjects.

The Snow Storm.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1.—Reports from the interior show the snow storm general, heavy rains falling for the past 24 hours and farmers are considerably elated at the prospect for fine crops. During the prevalence of the snow storm in this city yesterday an old gentleman was hailed ... street by a gang of ... and ... another volley, when he ... turned and fired a pistol, which had the effect of stopping further operations in that locality for the day.

Pacific Railroad Mortgaged.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 31.—The Pacific Railroad company has executed a mortgage on the road, rolling stock, property and rights of corporation to the Farmers' Loan and Trust company, to secure the payment of six per cent. bonds, amounting to $14,000 per mile on 115 miles of road, extending from San Luis Obispo to Santa Barbara. The bonds are payable September 1st, 1922. The object of the loan is to complete the road.

Mining Debris.

Judge Sawyer of the United States circuit court has been inspecting hydraulic mines, and during his trip visited the brush dam on Yuba river to ascertain the nature and extent of damage and danger to be apprehended from debris.

Marine Losses, San Francisco District.

According to custom house reports for the last year, thirteen vessels are registered in this district as lost, with a total loss to vessels of $85,000, covered by three-fourths value insurance. The aggregate loss on cargo was $85,100 mainly covered by insurance.

From the Sandwich Islands.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1.—The steamship Suez has arrived from the Sandwich islands, bringing news to December 22. Very active preparations are now making for the coronation of King Kalakaua on the 12th of February. A grand amphitheatre, that will seat over four thousand persons, is being erected in front of the palace. The ceremonial coronation takes place in the grand pavilion. The whole Hawaiian population appear to be united as one man to do honor to King Kalakaua.

The King's ministers recently made a tour of the island of Oahu, and were very enthusiastically received by the people.

A railroad is projected around the island of Oahu, and a very favorable route estimated to cost not more than $5,000,000 has been selected. This will give a wonderful impetus to the island.

An Australian projector, Capt. Audely Coote, projects a cable line to the British colonies via San Francisco.

There are over 400 telephones in use in the city of Honolulu and its application to other ... throughout the islands on plantations.

Some of the planters are now cutting their cane at night with the aid of the electric light.

Information has been received that an English and a French admiral, with their Pacific fleets, will be in port at the time of the coronation. It is also stated that two Russian vessels of war will be in port at the same time.

Preparations are being made by the government for the reception of the Japanese embassy especially to be present at the coronation.

The crop of sugar for 1883 is coming in rapidly. All the mills throughout the group are now grinding. The young canes are in fine condition, and give promise of a heavy crop in 1884. Sugar plantation stocks are well up, and no fears are entertained here about a renewal of the treaty with the United States.

Alaskan News.

PORT TOWNSEND, Dec. 31.—The steamer Idaho arrived here early this morning, having left Sitka on the 25th, after a remarkably smooth passage. At Departure bay she found the steamer Empire with a broken shaft.

News from Alaska is meagre. The Stickeen river is closed for the season. Very boisterous weather prevailed in Sitka during the latter part of the month. At one time the wind attained a velocity of 54 miles per hour and the barometer fell to 28 and ... its lowest ... for ... last.

The storm did great damage in the Russian town, unroofing houses, etc. The government buildings, having lately been repaired and strengthened, were not injured.

Mining is over at Juneau until spring. Miners are well satisfied with the season's work. Capitalists from San Francisco and the east have had an expert examining the ledges on Douglas island, and a hundred stamp mill will probably be erected on the Treadwell claim.

Collector Morris and wife came down on the Idaho. The former goes to Portland on legal business with the United States court.

Lieut. ... U. S. N., of the Adams, has ... charged ... with selling liquor to Indians at Sitka. He will be taken to Portland for trial in the morning.

New Year's Reception at the White House—Death of Minister Allen—Official Dispatch on Gambetta's Death.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—New Year's reception at the White House was brought to an abrupt termination to-day by a most painful accident. At the conclusion of the reception to the diplomatic corps, Hon. Elisha Allen, minister from the Hawaiian islands, dropped dead in the ... Mr. Allen was the dean of the diplomatic corps. He had conducted the presentation of members of the corps to the president, and when the ceremony was concluded walked to the ... room and asked for his wraps. While waiting for a servant to bring them he suddenly fell ... Instantly expired. He did not utter a word ... Dr. Norris, of the navy, was immediately summoned from among the visitors, and he pronounced death to have been instantaneous and ascribed it to disease of the heart. The president was receiving members of the Grand Army of the Republic when the sad news was conveyed to him, and orders were immediately given to close the White House doors. Thousands of citizens who were waiting their turn to pay their respects were unable to gain admittance, and considerable speed ... before the ... Mr. Allen was born in Salem, Massachusetts, Jan. 28, 1804. He was a lawyer by profession and served in the Maine legislature from 1836 to 1841, and in 1838, 1839, 1840 was speaker. He was elected a representative in congress from Maine from 1841 to 1843, serving as a member of the committee on manufactures. In 1846 he moved to Boston and was a member of the Massachusetts legislature in 1847. After the expiration of his term he was appointed consul to Honolulu, and soon after entered the service of the Hawaiian government. In 1856 he was sent to the United States as envoy of that government. In 1877 he was made chancellor and chief justice of the Sandwich islands, which position he held until 1876. Mr. Allen was presented to this country as minister from the islands on Jan. 14, 1870.

China and Japan Trade.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—The annual report of the bureau of statistics on foreign commerce of the United States for the fiscal year 1882 has been printed. The total value of imports of merchandise in commerce of the United States with China and Hongkong amounted during the year to $31,164,313 and constituted 4.5 per cent. of the total value of foreign commerce of the United States. Value of exports of merchandise from United States to China and Hongkong amounted to $5,213,480, and value of imports of merchandise into the United States from China and Hongkong amounted to $22,638,833. Total value of imports and exports of merchandise in commerce of the United States with Japan amounted during the year to $16,980,149, and constituted 1.1 per cent. of total value of foreign commerce of the United States. Value of exports of merchandise from the United States to Japan amounted to $2,540,154 and the value of the imports of merchandise into the United States from Japan amounted to $14,439,996, and value of imports of merchandise and bullion at the port of San Francisco has increased from $ 29,037 in 1856 to $51,681,497 in 1882. Value of exports of foreign merchandise, coin and bullion from San Francisco was $ 9,002,562. In 1882 it was $55,867,55.

The New Commissioner.

CHICAGO, Jan. 1.—A Washington special says: It appears to be a very general desire to know something of the commissioner who is to assist Minister Romero in negotiating a commercial treaty on the part of Mexico between that country and the United States. Gen. Cosada, the commissioner in question, is a native of the state of Tlaxco, about 50 years of age, a man of liberal education and progressive ideas. His father was very prominent in public life in Mexico. Gen. Cosada, when quite young, was exiled from his country for some political offense. He spent his period of exile in this country and Europe and while exiled he learned the English language fluently and became acquainted with many influential people. He has represented his native state several times in the Mexican congress, and his ability always secured for him a prominent place on important commissions. He will leave the city of Mexico on the 20th January, and will reach Washington by way of Vera Cruz and New Orleans about the middle of that month.

The President's Reception.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—To-day was bright and pleasant as a spring day. The reception at the president opened promptly. The executive mansion, with new decorations, upholstery and furniture, presented a fine appearance. Tropical plants adorned the mantels and east room, red, blue and green parlors, while festoons and smilax depended from chandeliers. The president stood in the blue parlor, assisted by several ladies. Cabinet ministers and the diplomatic corps were first received and during their reception Elisha H. Allen, Hawaiian minister, was taken ill. The reception stopped and the reception continued. The chief justice and associate justices of the U. S. supreme court, senators, etc., arrived, followed by the officers of the army and navy in full dress uniform. Old soldiers of the wars of 1812 and 1846 were then received. While members of the Oldest Inhabitants association of the District of Columbia were being received the death of Minister Allen was announced and the reception ended.

TUESDAY MORNING, JAN. 2, 1883.

WESTERN WASHINGTON.

A [illegible] description of Western Washington [illegible] on another page [illegible] the most important [illegible] of the [illegible]. Those who [illegible] will see how very shallow is the [illegible] that the Puget Sound country [illegible] can never amount to much because it has no backing." As a matter of fact the Puget Sound country has the best possible "backing." True, it has not great areas of farming land, but it has enough to supply local requirements, and its tide and timber pastures and stock ranges will, in the future of eastern Washington, within a very few years look upon with envy. Timber ranges are now almost wholly neglected both in Oregon and Washington, but they are in fact the best permanent pastures we have. The day will come and [illegible] when the [illegible] cattle producing sections of Oregon and Washington will be in the timber ranges of Puget Sound and along the coast.

In her coal and iron mines western Washington has the resources which have made Pennsylvania the second state in the Union. And she has them in unmeasured measure. Her store of coals is great enough to supply the needs of a manufacturing population of a million people for an indefinite period. It is practically inexhaustible. She has, literally, mountains of iron, of the qualities most valuable, easily accessible, and of the best commercial timbers she has a supply whose extent or value it is impossible to estimate. It is so great that thirty years of reckless extravagance in its use, and much wanton destruction have scarcely left a mark upon it. These three great materials—coal, iron and wood—are not only in great demand as raw materials throughout the commercial world, but they are the basis of manufacture, and the handmaid of manufacture is wealth.

In her present stage of development and perhaps for a few years to come, western Washington will sell her raw products, but in time she will become the seat of great manufacturing enterprises. And not least among the advantages of the Puget sound country is Puget sound itself, the finest harbor in the world.

Another circumstance of value in estimating the future development of western Washington is its fine working climate. A man can work in the open air every day in the year, without distress from heat and unharmed by cold. Its seasons afford scarcely more variety than is healthful and pleasant. The industrial conditions of the country at this time are prophetic of a great development in the future. Coal mines near Seattle and Tacoma have been opened and connected with deep water docks by lines of railroad. Other and more extensive coal fields are soon to be tapped by new lines of railroad. The iron beds near Port Townsend are being opened, and nine large merchant mills produce a million feet of sawed timber per day. The cities of the sound, though none of them are yet large or possess great wealth, are wonderfully energetic, and are progressing at a pace which cannot be described. And in social and moral conditions, the sound country is abreast of the time. It has newspapers of unusual enterprise, a college of merit, a fine general school system, beautiful churches and a cultivated and refined society. If western Washington were without resources excepting in and of itself, if it were an island in mid ocean, it would become great.

THE SORROWS OF "STALWARTISM."

The new year starts in badly for that form of discredited politics which goes under the name of "stalwartism." A doleful story of "stalwart" tribulations comes from Washington. Since the late elections the bosses and sub-bosses have found the atmosphere about the white house growing extremely cold. "That man Arthur" is accused of "going back on the men who made him," because he has sense enough to recognize the significance of the great popular verdict. The difference is stated in another way, thus: "Arthur wants to leave the white house to a united republican party, while old stalwarts want no union with men who asserted their independence last fall." Grant, Conkling, Cameron and Logan are all "out" with the administration, because the president does not make his office an instrument to register their several decrees.

Should these statements prove true, and should the president continue in the disposition to pursue to the end of his administration the course they indicate, there will be little doubt of a renewal or recovery of republican strength which will carry that party successfully through the next presidential contest. Sagacious persons were not slow to perceive that though the late elections had gone heavily against the republican party, there was a most excellent chance for victory in the defeat. Deliverance of the party from the "machine," from the "bosses," from "stalwartism," is the one thing needful to its success in 1884, and it was in 1880. It is creditable to the intelligence of the president that he is able to see it, and a compliment to his political integrity to find him acting so fair and independent a part.

BAD MAIL SERVICE.

The management of postal affairs, in Washington Territory as well as in Oregon, has long been notoriously bad. A traveler can go from one given point to another over half a dozen routes regularly traveled by steamboats and stages, much quicker than a letter properly posted will go. Letters and papers posted at a given time at Portland and addressed to certain points on Puget Sound will reach their destination sooner than if posted at the same hour at Seattle. Newspaper publishers and the business community of Seattle suffer serious inconvenience by this inefficient service. The service ought to be improved and could so if the postal authorities were competent and faithful.

A flagrant instance of neglect is reported from Montesano in Chehalis county. Mr. C. N. Byles, county treasurer, writes to a non-resident taxpayer in this city under date of December twenty-sixth, as follows: "Your letter of the thirteenth is just now received, this being the first and only mail to this place for near two weeks. The mail contractor having thrown up his contract, and the postal managers not being able to get it carried at the contract figures, they have shut us off entirely. The mail just received was brought at our own expense and this will be carried out at the charge of private individuals. A more unnecessary imposition than this was never suffered by a community." The letter which relates to taxes in Chehalis county due from the recipient in this city, says further, that taxes become delinquent January 1st, and that it has not been possible to regularly notify non-resident taxpayers of this fact owing to the failure of the mail, and that by reason of it they must suffer serious annoyance and expense. There can be no excuse for such gross neglect. The whole mail service of western Washington is poorly organized and badly managed. Routes should be re-arranged and time tables revised. In many localities the service should be doubled, and nearly everywhere expedited.

A dispatch from Dublin reports that "there is great show of developing the organization of the National league, but funds are seriously lacking." Irish leagues have a chronic appetite for money. Less for the agitators and more for the distressed poor would be a good motto for the charitable in America.

Arthur's relations with the Grant-Conkling crowd are described by a Washington correspondent as "strained." It is to be hoped that the strain will continue.

THE DEAD OF LAST YEAR.

Death was unusually busy among the greatest and best of earth during the year just closed. Almost every nation lost men whose names are connected with several departments of intellectual activity. The greatest, perhaps, in literary celebrity of those who have passed away are Longfellow and Emerson in our own country and Carlyle and Darwin in England. They have left none in their respective countries of equal fame.

In January, Pascal, the French sculptor; Richard Henry Dana, Jr., of Boston; J. W. Stoughton, ex-minister to Russia; Edward W. Perry, the promising young actor; Caroline Richings-Bernard, the well known opera singer; Sir Daniel Maclise, the Scotch painter; Gen. Schaeffer, veteran of several of our wars; Clarkson N. Potter, prominent in the politics of the country, and Rev. Henry W. Bellows, the famous exponent of Unitarianism, passed away.

February included in her death roll the names of Auerbach, the famous German novelist; Joseph Ducasse, renowned as a comedian; Henry Tucker [illegible], known in recent years as author of many popular melodies of the old slavery days; Prince Sawa, R[illegible] of the Russian royal family; [illegible], the French poet; M. Rousseau, made famous by his marriage with Nilsson, the singer, and the widow of Daniel Webster.

March witnessed the death of Milton S. Latham, the California pioneer; Dr. Pancoast, the eminent surgeon; Rear-admiral Spotts, and Commodore Glasson of the U. S. navy; Longfellow, America's greatest poet; and Minister Hurlbut, in Peru.

April included Charles Darwin, the scientist; Gen. Don C. Buell, famed in our civil war; Sir John Erskine Perry of London, and Ralph Waldo Emerson, the sage of Concord.

May numbered among its dead Horace Maynard, of Tennessee, ex-postmaster general; Gabriel Ravel, whose pantomime troupe so delighted the theater goers 30 years ago; Rear Admiral John Rodgers of the U. S. navy; Lord Cavendish and Under-Secretary Burke, murdered in Phœnix park; ex-Gov. C. C. Washburn of Minnesota; Gen. Kauffmann, governor of Turkestan; James Vick, companion of Horace Greeley and noted as a horticulturist; Helen M. Slocum, the woman suffrage advocate; the Duke of Grafton, Brig.-Gen. Geo. D. Ramsay of the U. S. army; George A. Conly, the bass singer, and Prof. Rodgers, president of the National Academy of Sciences.

The June list included the names of Garibaldi, the famous patriot of United Italy, and Gen. DeCissey, defender of Paris in the Franco-Prussian war.

July presented a longer list, headed by Gen. Skobeleff, hero of Plevna and Russia's best general; Benjamin Webster, the famed actor of former years; Hablot K. Browne, whose sketches of Dickens' characters rendered his name familiar to all readers of the author of David Copperfield; Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, and George P. Marsh, U. S. minister to Italy.

In August died Gen. Gouverneur K. Warren, U. S. army; Rear Admiral David McDougal, U. S. navy; Judge Delos Lake of San Francisco, Prof. Stanley Jevons, English scientist, drowned at Bixhill; Senator Hill, of Georgia; Gen. Ducrot, another hero of the Franco-Prussian war; Admiral Delatke, the Russian navigator; Edward Morin, the French artist, and Johan Herbig, the German sculptor.

September swelled the long roll with the names of Earl Grey, the English diplomat, and Dr. Edward Bouverie Pusey, the celebrated English divine.

October's list contained Frank Queen of the New York Clipper; Rear Admiral H. Y. Purviance, U. S. navy; and Fredric MacCrellish, founder of the San Francisco Alta Californian.

November's list began with James W. Simonton, manager of the Associated Press, following will Rear Admiral Chas. H. Poor, U. S. navy; Sir Andrew Buchanan, English diplomatist; the Earl of Harrowby; Thurlow Weed, the only remaining member of the famous firm of Seward, Weed & Greeley, and oldest of New York journalists; and Commodore Henry Eagle and Rear Admiral James H. Strong of U. S. navy.

December rounded out the year's necrology with the Archbishop of Canterbury; Louis Blanc, the French politician and writer; Anthony Trollope, the English novelist; Trenor W. Parke, the New York capitalist; Congressman Godlove S. Orth; Rear Admiral James F. Schenck, U. S. navy, and Henry James, Sr.

Gambetta, the French lawyer, statesman, and orator, whose death is announced, was born in 1838. He first acquired fame in 1868 as counsel for defendants in political prosecutions, moved thereto by his hostility to the second empire. After Sedan he took upon himself the direction of the affairs of the country, remained in Paris for some time after it was invested by the Germans, and escaped from the city by means of a balloon. In his assumption of unlimited power he was obeyed; but when a national assembly was resolved upon at the close of the war he sought to give the government an exclusively republican character. It was largely due to his leadership that the republicans owed their success in establishing and maintaining the government against the machinations of the several monarchical parties.

Senator Morgan of Alabama proposed an amendment to the civil service reform bill which could have been accepted with great propriety. It proposed to enact that no advice or recommendation of any person for office or place, which might be given by any senator or representative, should be received, unless the opinion or statement of such senator or representative should first be asked in writing by one or more of the commissioners by whom the appointment was to be made. It was not adopted, apparently for the reason that members of congress don't like to give up their "patronage." Which is only another proof of the fact that members of congress are the great obstructors of civil service reform.

"When we get possession of all the offices then we will attend to this civil service reform business," say our democratic brethren. The reform then will consist in putting republicans out and putting democrats in. Senator Brown of Georgia, in a recent speech in the senate, said: "It is useless to disguise the fact that a democratic president would manage to find a way to seize the offices in spite of any civil service reform measure." This has, at least, the merit of candor and directness.

A college is to be established in Waitsburg, Walla Walla county, W. T., by the Presbyterian church, the people of the town having subscribed ten thousand dollars and a suitable site for the enterprise. The location is a good one. Waitsburg is the center of a large district and is the easiest point of access for a great population. It is distinguished as the "temperance town" of eastern Washington and children sent there will be under the best moral influences.

A bill is before congress to authorize the president to appoint Gen. Benjamin Alvord, well known here, to the rank of brigadier general and paymaster general of the United States, to date from January 1, 1872, said appointment to entitle him to receive pay from that date according to the rank conferred, he having acted as paymaster general of the army from that time.

A company of Seattle capitalists have taken up over 7 [illegible] acres of land in the Moxee [illegible] Yakima county, and will soon commence construction of an irrigating ditch to cost $75,000.

A new granary building is being erected in Walla Walla, 80x40, to be used in the spring for canning of fruits and vegetables. The capacity of the establishment will be 3000 cans per day.

The coal mines of Puget sound are so pressed with orders that it is impossible for some vessels to load and the [illegible] Washington has been lying at Seattle several days awaiting cargo.

Whitman county farmers are growling because they are obliged to visit the county seat when they pay taxes. This is a burden to them and they want to pay up at their nearest trading points.

About [illegible] men are employed at the Tacoma lime kiln now, and about 100 barrels of lime are being turned out daily. A new kiln is about to be built, some of the brick for which are already on hand.

The mail route between Olympia and Astoria, thrown up recently by Contractor Campbell, has been turned over to L. A. Loomis, president of the Gray's Harbor Steamboat Co., who will operate it hereafter.

Between 80 and 100 men are employed at Lister's iron works in Tacoma. The proprietor is negotiating with all Lake parties with a view of developing the iron mines in that section and producing pig iron for home use.

Wm. Littson dropped dead on Port Blakely on Tuesday while on his way to camp. He was found to have on him $32 50 and a bottle of whisky. He had been on a protracted spree and his death is attributed to excessive use of liquor.

White Salmon valley, 8 miles below the Dalles, in Klickitat county, is growing rapidly. Husum is the commercial center, about five miles from the Columbia river, contains a grist mill and several business houses, with a fine water power. A sawmill is greatly needed. Plenty of timber in the vicinity, principally black and yellow pine and fir. The lumber could easily be sold at the Dalles and to settlers in the neighborhood.

At a distance of about three miles from Whatcom, near Harris bay, and plainly to be seen from the deck of passing steamboats, is an old dilapidated building standing upon the highest ground, with no other buildings in sight, looking as deserted and cheerless as one could well imagine. This house was built some eight or ten years ago, intended for a hotel, as it was thought the railroad would make its terminus at that point. The building is said to have cost $6000.

About six weeks ago Levi Buckner left his ranch in Umatilla county, near Wild Horse creek, for Pendleton with a load of wheat. When last seen he was within five miles of Pendleton on the Weston stage road. All inquiries so far have failed to elicit his whereabouts. Buckner is a discharged soldier, a sober, industrious man, about 40 years of age, medium height, wears a dark mustache. He drove two fine mules to his wagon. It is the general supposition that he has been foully dealt with, although it is not known that he had any great amount of money on his person.

The Port Townsend Argus says: The growth of the trade on the upper sound is wonderful. Only a short year ago it was thought all the traffic was capable of sustaining were the Zephyr and the Messenger—not including the trips to Tacoma of the Victoria and Port T[illegible]—and that the putting on of a boat by the O. R. & N. Co. [illegible] and their crowding out, for [illegible] boats, making two trips a day, could not possibly live. This has by no means proved the case. On the contrary the three boats live very comfortably on the route, and their trade is steadily increasing and improving. The two boats before [illegible] did [illegible], while the other boat has a passenger traffic the finest ever seen on the sound, averaging over a hundred a day.

The Tacoma mill of Hanson & Co. cut last year about 2,500,000 feet of lumber. Fifty-three vessels loaded at the company's wharves during the year. The number of men employed in the legitimate operations of the mill has averaged about 180. The pay roll on mill account has been about $85,000, and over $100,000 has been expended in permanent improvements, among which may be enumerated: An increase of the dimensions of the mill to 80x148 feet; the increase of boiler capacity to about 1700 horse power; the addition of new machinery, so that the cutting outfit consists of two double circular saws, two large gang saws, one re-saw, three gang edgers, eight trimmers, two double sets of lath and picket machinery and four new and improved planers. The company has purchased during the year some 20,000 acres of timber lands, the product of which will all be utilized in the future. They maintain about thirty-two logging camps, scattered over the sound from Snohomish to Olympia, at which some 400 men and about as many oxen are employed. At different points they transport large quantities of logs over the Olympia and Tenino railroad for a distance of seven or eight miles. The Tacoma mill cannot supply the demand made upon it from abroad, and its ramifications, extensive as they are, are likely to be increased in the future. The mill is now being run night and day, and after the 1st of February will have an estimated capacity of 200,000 feet of lumber daily, or about 72,000,000 feet a year.

The car shops of the Northern Pacific railroad company at Tacoma turned out a large amount of work last year, having practically supplied all this side of the line with flat and other cars. The record of the year shows that there have been turned out 285 flat, 10 box, 7 baggage and mail, about 80 hand, 5 push and 100 coal cars besides doing a good deal of repair work on cars and engines. The new machine shops, 90 feet wide by 200 long, has been completed, and to this building is to be transferred all the iron machinery now used in the old building south, which is to be used entirely for the wood work of car building.

The government work at Cascade locks now furnishes employment for 175 hands.

[illegible] Fisher, of Salem, has sold his livery stable to Messrs. Ford & Ellis, of Dallas for $10,000.

The Astorian's issue of January 1st was an excellent number, containing much valuable matter pertaining to the growth of that enterprising city.

A new quartz ledge has been discovered about six miles above Mohawk on the Santiam river, which prospects well, and the lucky discoverers have to tie [illegible] or near by, determined to see what the value contains.

Farming must pay in Douglas county. A short time ago the Hon. [illegible] sold his place near Oakland to James E. Hodge for the sum of $[illegible]. Mr. Hodge has since resold him the same place, together with his Green valley farm, for the term of five years, for the sum of $[illegible].

On the 15th of January inst. bids will be considered for the construction of a ditch thirty feet wide from the head of the old ditch of the Willamette woolen mills to what was at one time McGee's slough, where the old McGee mill stood. The ditch is to be constructed for the City of Salem Company.

T. J. [illegible], of Lane county, purchased [illegible] cranberry cuttings while on the east some time ago, which he will plant [illegible] in some marshy land in his possession. He is favorably impressed with the possibilities of this new industry, and believes Oregon can raise as good cranberries as New Jersey.

James Dixon, superintendent of the sawmill at Port Orford, was drowned there on the 15th inst. No one witnessed the drowning, but it is supposed Dixon slipped from a log, and in falling struck other timbers, and went into the water at the dam in an unconscious condition and unable to help himself. The body was recovered soon after the accident, when the face was found to be badly cut and bruised.

Eastern Oregon.

A gentleman in Umatilla county recently said that he was unable to buy cattle to stock his ranch in [illegible] as cheaply in Oregon as he could in Iowa and Missouri. Cattle are very scarce in this state, and he found it almost impossible to procure the supply he wanted.

Montana.

Reports from the railroad front state the Northern Pacific track is now laid about [illegible] miles beyond Clark's Fork river crossing. The snowfall has disappeared, and everybody is in good health.

CITY.

FRATERNAL CALL.—[illegible]

AT THE COUNTY JAIL.—Several ladies visited the county jail yesterday and spent some time in conversing with the prisoners. An [illegible] in good spirits, smoking [illegible] and is gaining flesh, and is [illegible] waiting for his trial. [illegible] protests his innocence and pours his tale in the ears of all willing to listen. [illegible] charged with perjury, [illegible] has been waiting for trial a long time, [illegible] New Year. Deputy Sheriff [illegible] French, who stole W. A. Hart's coat, up to the penitentiary last night, and Sheriff Sears will [illegible] Riley, sentenced for two years for [illegible] boat, today. The common greeting, "Happy New Year," was not used in the prison.

FIRE DEPARTMENT CHANGES.—The inauguration of the paid department system necessitates many changes. Three's horses were taken up to Five's house yesterday. Today the work of tearing out Three's house will probably be commenced, the contract being let for the remodeling of the building for the proper accommodation of the men and teams. The engine was not taken up as it was at Five's would not fit it. When Three's house is completed the men and teams from Four's will be moved up to Five's while their house is being remodeled. It is probable that the property lately occupied by One's and Two's will be sold and a new house built in the western part of the city and another in the north end as it is not deemed desirable to have the engines located so close to each other as [illegible].

ELECTION.—At the annual election of the Light Battery, held at their armory last [illegible] W. A. Hart, captain, and aid-de-camp presiding, the following officers were elected: Captain, [illegible]; first lieutenant, M. Mendy; second lieutenant, H. Parker; secretary, George W. [illegible]; treasurer, D. Goodsell; quartermaster sergeant, George W. Taylor; first sergeant, Jos. [illegible]; sergeant, Julius Myers; third sergeant, [illegible]; fourth sergeant, James Sheridan; [illegible], Peter Johnson; second corporal, [illegible]; armorer, George Stewart.

[illegible].—THE OREGONIAN is in receipt of [illegible] two reliable citizens of the Lower [illegible] severely criticizing the action of J. [illegible], [illegible] of the peace of that precinct, in the Teufel [illegible]. They allege that the only witness to the affray is willing to testify that Teufel [illegible] while walking away from Fraser [illegible] was arraigned for preliminary hearing on a charge of murder and waived examination upon the solicitation of Fraser's [illegible] without hearing a word of testimony [illegible] to bail in the sum of $3000.

[illegible] MEMBERSHIPS.—Last week Judge [illegible], president of the library association, secured [illegible] members to the library, each of the [illegible] gentlemen having contributed $250 for [illegible]: W. S. Gibson, James Steel, E. [illegible], C. H. Prescott, Paul Schulze, C. E. [illegible], J. W. Cook and C. H. Dodd. This [illegible] fund for the purchase of new books [illegible] the intelligent management of Judge [illegible] library has steadily prospered, and its [illegible] condition was never better than at this [illegible].

[illegible] WORKS.—The Willamette Iron Works [illegible] during the coming season, upon the recently purchased block bounded by Third, Fourth, [illegible] streets, an immense foundry, machine shop [illegible] shop. It will occupy the entire block. [illegible], manager of the company, leaves [illegible] San Francisco to buy the necessary machinery. This well known factory has outgrown the [illegible] quarters at the foot of E street, which will [illegible] as soon as the new building is finished.

[illegible].—Another bulletin from the Inland [illegible] yesterday at 8:30 A. M. give the following [illegible] of the thermometer: Riparia 9, Umatilla [illegible] Bonneville 19. The mercury was down [illegible] at Celilo at 6 A. M. There was considerable [illegible] at Celilo, but none at Bonneville. [illegible] wind prevailed at Umatilla and Celilo, [illegible] falling, and this fact may prevent a [illegible] would otherwise be certain.

[illegible].—A. J. Graham, who has lately returned from the Powder river country, states that [illegible] land there has proved among the best [illegible] in the state. It is easily cleared, a horse [illegible] pull up the bushes, which are then [illegible] and burned. Four acres which he [illegible] last year produced 400 bushels of wheat. [illegible] irrigation was necessary, but the supply of [illegible] the river was plentiful.

[illegible].—The occupation of his new residence [illegible] corner of Fifteenth and E streets, by [illegible] of the firm of Marx & Jorgensen, was made [illegible] of a genuine old fashioned house warming [illegible] guests tripped the light fantastic [illegible] after midnight, and there was no [illegible] sparkling champagne to keep up their [illegible] spirits.

[illegible].—Last night Patrick Thomas, [illegible], A. Johnson and Wm. King, four of [illegible] the ship El Capitan, were brought here [illegible] and lodged in jail to be held as witnesses [illegible] the charges of cruelty and maltreatment of [illegible] preferred against Edward Sewell, master; [illegible], mate; and Robert King, steward of [illegible].

[illegible] PARTY.—A large party of the friends of [illegible] Fliedner and family took his residence by [illegible] evening, and proceeded to enjoy themselves [illegible] the usual manner of surprise parties. [illegible] proved equal to the occasion and ably [illegible] the efforts of his guests, and a very pleasant [illegible] was spent by all present.

[illegible].—Last night at the rink B. Clark, a [illegible], while endeavoring to avoid collision [illegible] couple coming in the opposite direction, [illegible] by them, thrown violently to the floor [illegible] his left leg broken. He was placed [illegible] and [illegible] to his home, corner Third and Mill streets.

[illegible].—The State of California arrived at [illegible] five yesterday afternoon. Capt. Debney [illegible] passage was the smoothest he ever made [illegible] San Francisco and Portland, the sea being [illegible] good during the forty-six hours of the voyage [illegible] a single passenger was sick.

[illegible].—The Portland Hibernian Benevolent [illegible] last night re-elected the following officers: [illegible], Thos. Kearney; vice president, James [illegible]; secretary, W. J. Kelly; assistant secretary, [illegible] Callaghan; treasurer, T. Brandon; color bearers, [illegible] Thos. Frawn and Owen McCarron.

[illegible] TAXES.—The time for paying school taxes [illegible] penalty expires tomorrow, the 3d inst. To [illegible] tax payers who desire to do so, request the [illegible] Wm. Church, Jr., will be at his office, corner [illegible] and Morrison, from 8 A. M. till 8 P. M. today and tomorrow.

[illegible].—Andrew Nelson, a sailor belonging to [illegible] Queen of the Pacific, was struck upon the head [illegible] falling plank and sustained very painful [illegible] not dangerous injuries. He was taken to St. [illegible] hospital, where Dr. [illegible] attends [illegible].

[illegible] Caledonian Club gave a very pleasant [illegible] Guard hall last night. About fifty [illegible] present and the evening was agreeably [illegible] songs, recitations, dancing and [illegible] refreshments.

The shooting tournament of the Rod and Gun Club was largely attended as is usual, some good shooting was done. A few went shooting, but as duck are scarce and in poor condition on account of the high water, but little sport was had. A party of three hunters making for Sauvie's Island with two fine large liver hounds, followed the [illegible] but a bust was [illegible] in [illegible] the deer.

The members of the fire department were [illegible] in their homes and presented a very [illegible] appearance.

ALONG THE WHARVES.

Many ships along the river front were handsomely decorated with evergreens and flags of all nations. The British barks Pendragon and Trevelyan and the British ship Eskdale were particularly noticeable, with their main yards speak[illegible] a pretty appearance. On board the Eskdale the sailors and the middies were dressed in their best and enjoying themselves with English games. An OREGONIAN man happened along at the time that they were engaged in vigorous contests with single sticks, and it was interesting, especially to the looker on, to watch the heavy blows given and taken with true English grit.

THE LOTHIAN CLUB.

The First Dress Ball of this Society given Last Night at Turn Halle—A Brilliant Assemblage.

A gay crowd of people, both young and old, were gathered at Turn Halle last evening, the occasion being the first dress ball of the Lothian club, to which they had invited their relatives and friends. This club was organized about three months ago by a number of society young men, and now has eighteen members. The committee of arrangements who had charge of the ball last evening were Messrs. H. Wolfe, [illegible], Sol Frank, [illegible] Seller and I. N. Lipman. To these gentlemen's earnest endeavors is due the great success of the affair and the pleasant time enjoyed by all present.

The toilets of the ladies present were handsome and varied, but too numerous and elaborate to allow of detailed description. The dances were well arranged and comprised everything that could be desired. The bright faces of the youthful and the smiling countenances of the older ones told plainly how pleasantly the occasion would be remembered by all.

Among the married folks present were I. Jacobs and wife, S. Rosenfeld and wife, Ad. Wolf and wife, A. Lobe and wife, S. Rosenblatt and wife, M. Rosenblatt and wife, A. Meier and wife, Nathan [illegible], [illegible] and wife, E. Frank and wife, Julius Levy and wife, D. Simon and wife, E. Kohnland and wife, H. Ackerman and wife, and C. H. Friendly and wife.

The young ladies present were the Misses Clara Bergman, Lillie Jacobs, Jennie Meyer, Laura Meyer, Frances Meyer, [illegible] Kahn, Jennie Kohn, Nannie Meier, Millie Simon, Ida [illegible], [illegible] Kaufman, Sarah Lyon, Annie Cohen, [illegible], [illegible], Bertha [illegible], Henrietta Waldman, Bertha Levy, Emma Durkheimer, Sophia Durkheimer, Ida Metzger, Esther Cohn, Carrie S. Rosenblatt, Clara Simon, Eliza Simon, Sarah Menasche, Barbette Kaufman, Rosa Bremer, Blanche Kann, Lillie Kohn, Celia Friendly, Emma Friendly, Carrie Rosenblatt, Lillie Rosenblatt, Miss Samuels, and others.

The young gentlemen present were I. Lipman, [illegible] Rosenblatt, S. Frendenthal, Fred Seller, H. Rosenthal, Julius Hess, Julius Ach, Henry Ach, J. Bremer, M. Lyon, M. Kohn, H. Dittenhoeffer, A. Mann, [illegible], B. Neustadter, H. Hartung, E. Waldman, L. Hirsch, A. Rosenthal, H. Harris, S. Frenkel, J. Goldsmith, L. Loewengart, J. and I. Leihman and others.

COLLISION ON THE N. P. R. R.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW TACOMA, Jan. 1.—At 1 this afternoon the little wharf locomotive Manatonka was pushing three empty flat cars toward the wharf between the car shops and railroad depot. Two cars laden with railroad iron were going from the wharf to the top of the grade, propelled by two heavy engines, one drawing and the other pushing. As the trains neared the curve under the bluff they collided. Two of the empty flats struck the forward engine and passed over it, carrying away the headlight, stack and cab, crossed over the tender and the two loaded cars, one of the empties landing in the bay and the other lodged transversely on the second car, throwing off a coal car on the side track. On seeing the flats coming the engineer jumped, whilst the conductor stooped and allowed the two flats to pass over him. A man on the flat cars when the trains met jumped safely into a coal car on a side track. The engineer of the pushing train avoided a collision by breaking the train. The conductor was the only one hurt, and he not seriously. Two cars are completely wrecked and one engine seriously damaged.

BRIEF MENTION.

The International hotel, corner Third and E, will be opened about the 15th.

Mine host Gruner treated the guests of the [illegible] to a splendid New Years' dinner yesterday.

Jeff Hayes, receiver in the Western Union office, won the fine gold watch and chain raffled at Bogan's last night.

The president of the society announced that this closed the exercises of the evening, and called upon the audience to unite in singing "John Brown's Body," which was done with all the force that the sound and strong lungs of the assembly were capable of.

Then every one repaired to the well filled refreshment tables ranged along the side of the hall, and supplemented the intellectual feast to which they had just listened by one equally inviting to the inner man. After the supper was over dancing was indulged in, and the celebration and ball closed with melodious music and a happy time that extended into the small hours of morning.

THE ALBINA FERRY FIGHT.

One side Indulges in Sharp Practice, and are Met with Sharper Practice.

Rather an exciting episode occurred near the Albina ferry landing on the east side yesterday. It will be remembered that some time since Mr. Geo. W. Shaver caused a row of piles to be driven diagonally across the front of a piece of property owned by J. B. Montgomery in Albina. The property owned by Mr. Shaver joins that of Mr. Montgomery at an acute angle with the river, and he claimed that his riparian rights extended into the river as far as the wharf line, and this line with the boundary between him and Montgomery. Seeing that the piling would cut off the approach by water to his property, Mr. Montgomery sued out an injunction in the circuit court and put a stop to the work. Notwithstanding the injunction Mr. Shaver stretched a chain across the front of Mr. Montgomery's property, above the proposed ferry landing, and also moored a steamer there with the evident intention of preventing Messrs. Montgomery and Wilson from making a landing there for their own, into a ferry. Yesterday the steamer [illegible] was employed to remove the piles driven by Mr. Shaver. A hawser was made fast to the piles one after another and they were broken off at the ground for a width of about eighty feet, leaving a passage sufficient for the purpose of a ferry landing. During the work the [illegible] Mr. Shaver came down to the scene of the work and as the last pile was [illegible] he [illegible] it, however, [illegible]. It seems that Shaver [illegible] count that advantage was taken of the fact that yesterday was a holiday [illegible] as there could be no injunction obtained to put a stop to the work.

The new ferry law forbids the [illegible] establishment of a ferry within [illegible] blocks of any other ferry in operation at the time of the passage of the act, and goes into effect about the [illegible] instant. Those opposing Montgomery & Wilson therefore wish to prevent them from getting a license and also from establishing their ferry if possible until the [illegible] instant. "This probably accounts for the singular [illegible] set up by Mr. Shaver that his right of wharfage projects into the river in a straight line with his boundary above high water mark. Mr. Montgomery on the contrary contends that riparian rights extend into the river at right angles to the shore without regard to how the boundaries may extend back above high water mark. As the policy of the county court has been to encourage the establishment of additional ferry facilities in the city, Montgomery & Wilson, anticipating a license, have prepared a way for a landing.

THE "HOG" LAW.

In answer to numerous demands THE OREGONIAN again prints the act of the last legislature "to prevent swine running at large." It will be seen that only a small part of the state is included in the provisions:

Be it enacted, etc. Sec. 1—That the owner or keeper of any swine shall not allow the same to run or be at large out of his own enclosure in the counties of Polk, Lake, Multnomah, Washington, Yamhill and Marion, and that part of Linn county of the south Santiam river, and that part of Clackamas county known as Oregon City, Oswego, Canemah and Milwaukie precincts, under penalty of $10 for the first offense and of $25 for each and every subsequent offense, to be recovered by civil action in the name of the state of Oregon before a justice of the peace of the precinct in which said owner or keeper, or either of them, may reside, and such penalty shall be for the benefit of, and when collected paid to the common school fund of the county in which such action is brought within 60 days after such animal is proved to be at large.

Sec. 2—No prosecution shall be commenced to recover the penalties named in sec. 1 until at least one day's notice has been given to the owner or person having charge of such swine if such owner or keeper is known, and it shall be a sufficient defense to such prosecution to show that such animal or animals were at large without the knowledge of such owner or keeper and without his fault.

Sec. 3—A person finding any swine running at large contrary to the provisions of this act may, and any constable of any precinct or marshal of any city in his county where such swine may be found, on view or information shall, take up and confine the same [illegible] giving notice thereof to the owner, if known, and if not known, by posting notices describing such animals in at least three public places within the precinct, and if the owner does not appear and claim his property and pay all charges for taking up, advertising and keeping the same, within 10 days from the date of [illegible] notice, the [illegible] swine may be [illegible] lating estrays. This act shall be in force from and after its approval by the governor.

Approved October 21, 1882.

OUR PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The library association of Portland, founded in 1864, by the citizens of Portland, has become during the last few years a flourishing and thriving institution and one of the principal ornaments of the city. Under the present able and efficient management, with Hon. Matthew P. Deady at the head of the literary department and president of the association, the library has been [illegible] furnished with the newest and latest works as soon as published, with H. Failing at the head of the financial department and vice president, the [illegible] funds of the association have been invested to the best advantage; with P. C. Schuyler as treasurer and M. W. Fechheimer, as corresponding secretary, the institution has steadily and rapidly grown [illegible]. There are now in the library over 11,000 volumes, comprehending every department of literature, ancient and modern, suitable for all classes of readers, old and young, rich and poor. The newspaper and periodical department of the library [illegible] with the best magazines and periodicals of America, England, Germany and France. The rooms have been well patronized by the members [illegible] quarterly and annually, of which there is a large list on the books, [illegible] that the benefits conferred are appreciated by the citizens, and strangers visiting the city, and that the labors of the directors [illegible] the amusement of the public have not been in vain.

THE O. & C. R. R. EXTENSION.

Forty-five Miles of the Road Accepted by the Government Commissioners.

Rev. E. R. Geary, Joseph H. Fisk and Col. J. McCraken, the commissioners appointed to examine and report to the government the condition of the extension of the O. & C. R. R., have formally accepted the 45 miles just completed south from Roseburg. [illegible]

FAMILY TROUBLES.

A Woman on Sixth Street Arouses Her Neighbors by Crying Out that Her Husband had Scalded Her.

Shortly after [illegible] last night, John Pugh, a respected citizen [illegible] East street, [illegible] story of cruelty and wife beating [illegible] he was going down Stark street when he met a woman [illegible] Sixth street [illegible] out in the street and calling out for help. Pugh went to her assistance, and she told him that her husband had shamefully abused and beaten her, and [illegible]. Fearing the results of interference in domestic troubles, Pugh did not enter the house, but went at once to the police station with his story.

Policeman Holzberg was detailed to investigate the matter, and accompanied by an OREGONIAN reporter, with Mr. Pugh to lead the way, betook himself to the house [illegible]. For nearly a block before reaching the place the moans of a woman could be distinctly [illegible] it needed no directing to find the house where the reported trouble had occurred.

[illegible]

"What is the matter here?" asked Holzberg.

"My man scalded me with a pot of boiling water," answered the woman, [illegible]

[illegible]

"Who is [illegible]?" [illegible]

[illegible]

"Do you want to have him arrested?"

"Yes, I want to have a warrant for him; but I don't think it's right for him to treat me the way he does, and I'm the mother of [illegible] children, and he [illegible]"

[illegible]

"Do you want to have him arrested?" was again asked the woman.

"No, I don't. He's good to me some times," said the woman.

"Well, that's all I want to know," said Holzberg. "Wish you a happy New Year!" and the two men [illegible] domestic infelicity [illegible] out into the street and heard the door closed and locked behind them.

THE EAST SIDE.

FIREMEN'S MASQUERADE.

The fourth annual masquerade ball of Mount Hood Hook and Ladder Company of East Portland took place at Neppach's hall last evening. The management started out with the determination to eclipse all former efforts in this direction, and well they succeeded. The accommodations at the hall for both maskers and spectators were excellent, and left nothing to be desired—if a lack of space be excepted, which the committee cannot well be held responsible for. Seats had been arranged for the accommodation of about three hundred spectators, but these were filled before half-past 8 o'clock. A number of others were then [illegible], and finally standing room was at a premium, and the door had to be locked to prevent further admissions. The masquerade compared favorably, both in costumes and characters, with any previous affair of the kind given here or in Portland. The following is a complete list of those who participated, together with the characters represented:

LADIES.

- H. P. McGuire—Henry V.

Fun and dancing to Prof. Parrott's quadrille band continued unmarred until the delight of the large audience present till 11 o'clock, when the party formed in a circle to listen to the award of prizes made by the appointed judges, Judge C. B. Bellinger, Dr. C. H. Raffety, T. A. Wood, D. D. Neer and Henry Stratton, Mrs. M. Bulloch and Mrs. T. Holman. They are as follows:

For the best sustained lady's character: Ivory toilet set, in morocco case, valued at $20; Mrs. T. Lyall, Indian Squaw.

For the best sustained gentleman's character—Silver pitcher, valued at $20; Mr. T. J. Matlock, Indian.

For best lady's suit—very toilet set, plush case, valued at $10; Miss Sarah Elam, Gipsy Maid.

For best gentleman's suit—Parlor clock, valued at $10; Mrs. Dodge, George Washington.

For best lady's original costume—Photograph album, valued at $5; Miss Ida Browning, Eclipse.

For best gentleman's original costume—Pair Bohemian vases, valued at $5; Frank Jacobs, glazier.

Masks were then removed and the usual surprises ensued. Spectators who wished now remained with the maskers to dance away the fleeting hours till early morning. G. H. McEwan, Jno. Pape, Wm. [illegible] and [illegible] Hadley (officers of the [illegible]) were [illegible] managers. Mr. J. T. [illegible] served supper in the engine room, which was patronized and enjoyed in a manner [illegible]. Altogether the affair reflected great credit on the company under whose auspices it was given, and more particularly the committee of arrangements, Messrs. W. W. McGuire, C. B. Pixley, Fred. Kindorf, Henry Pape and John Neppach.

WHICH IS THE BRAVER.

The following fragment taken from the manuscript of an unfinished poem of O. L. Yeates is dedicated to the late Sylvester Bremen of Portland, and was taken from the original.

That fireman brave is [illegible].

A female in his arms he bore,
Which he unconscious found,
A blanket into strips he tore,
And eased her to the ground.

And then to that brave man a yell
Arose amid the din,
As from the window he fell,
The rafters tumbled in.

But willing hands were waiting there
To give the sufferer aid;
Then to a place of safety bear
The unconscious forms and laid.

Accord we to the soldier bold
His glory and his fame,
Nor ever light his valor hold,
Nor lightly speak his name.

But draw a contrast here we will;
Which do you deem most brave,
The one who dares unkind to kill,
Or the who dares to save?

The fireman's work is not for pelf,
Nor in the scenes of strife
Would he recoil from hell itself
To save a human life.

Now, in conclusion, brave fire boys,
To you this toast I give:
"Rewarded may you be with joys,
And long may you each live.

May blessings crown each one through life,
May each one live to see
His ~~[illegible]~~ become his loving wife,
His children on his knee."

NEWS FROM DAYTON, W. T.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

Business is very quiet since Christmas.

The two cases of smallpox in Kroger's family are out of danger and a spread of the disease is not feared.

The recent flood did considerable damage to property along the Touchet river and Patit creek. It was the highest water ever seen here, washing away bridges, fences, orchards and bark [illegible]. The damage is about $20,000. The O. R. & N. Co. was washed away in several places. The O. R. & N. Co. are considerable losers.

Some one attempted to burn the saloon occupied by L. A. Davis in the upper end of Portland block, on Tuesday night. The door was broken open, the floor and walls saturated with kerosene and a box of candles [illegible] lighted and set at the back door, but luckily for the owners of five or six wooden buildings in that range the fire smouldered and went out after charring the door.

COLLEGE AT WAITSBURG.

WAITSBURG, W. T., Dec. 29.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The presbytery of Idaho, under the synod of the Columbia, at its late meeting held in this city, unanimously resolved to establish a college to be under the fostering influence of the Presbyterian church of this territory.

The need for such an institution is already greatly felt, and we trust that this institution will to some extent fill this want.

The citizens of this place offer the sum of $10,000 as a subscription toward its erection.

The place is admirably adapted to such an institution. It is noted for the salubrity and healthfulness of its climate and the morality and quietude of its citizens.

This institution is designed by no means to be sectarian, but is to be established and maintained on the broadest basis of sound learning and Christian scholarship. The Presbytery have entered vigorously on the work, raising funds to supplement those offered by the citizens of this place for the erection of the buildings and the endowment of the institution.

And should any benevolent individual who is desirous of aiding in the development of this new region and promoting its growth and prosperity see fit to aid this new enterprise by subscribing, such aid, however small, will be most thankfully received. All such sums may be sent to A. L. Kimbear, Esq.

TUESDAY MORNING, J[illegible] 2, 18[illegible]

WESTERN WASHINGTON.

Puget Sound, Seattle, Tacoma, Olympia and Port Townsend.

THE REGION ALONG THE COLUMBIA RIVER.

Great Resources as yet Hardly Touched—What the Railroads are Doing, Etc., Etc.

Any attempt to describe Puget sound can give the reader but a poor idea of its beauty, so much does it depend on spirit and wonder of those who have seen it. Briefly, it is an arm of the ocean a hundred miles inland and extending north and south parallel with the coast for a hundred and fifty miles. It varies in width from five to fifteen miles and intersects its shores with hundreds of bays and little inlets. A long, broad strait, running east and west, connects its northern extreme with the ocean, and its salt waters rise and fall with the ocean tides. Everywhere it is deep, and magnificent evergreen forests crowd its shores, and almost into the waters on every side. Hundreds of wooded islands afford a panorama of the picturesque, and rugged snowy mountains in constant view give a touch of grandeur and complete a beautiful picture.

But beauty is incidental and goes for but little by itself. Of greater importance is it that ships can float on Puget sound, that fishes swarm its waters, that the bays and ports afford good anchorage, that the timber is the finest in the world for spars and ships and houses, that its climate is mild and healthful, that the lands which lie near its shores are fruitful, that the mountains yield iron and coal—that natural conditions for the living and happiness of a million people are here. The great industries of Puget sound are timber and coal production. Nine large merchant mills are located along its shores, and their daily lumber cut is nearly a million feet. These mills in almost every instance are owned by San Francisco capitalists, and their product is carried by sailing vessels to the San Francisco market and to foreign countries. South America is the largest foreign purchaser, and Australia is the next. Coal from these mines, all owned by non-residents, is carried by large iron steam colliers to San Francisco and Portland. The monthly output of coal from these mines is almost thirty thousand tons, and it could easily be increased to several times that amount. The other industries of Puget sound are local, but small because local. The principal city of the sound is

SEATTLE.

It is located on Elliott's bay, on the east shore of the sound, about half way between its northern and southern extremes, and has a population of about 6500, having increased during the past year from 4000. There is not on the Pacific coast a more energetic town than Seattle. It controls the business of the sound at present, and is making a hard fight to hold it against the rivalry of several other points. Its central situation, its deep, sheltered bay, its [illegible] of rich agricultural and mineral lands and its "start" are all elements in its favor and to these advantages are added the force of great public spirit and enterprise. Permanent improvements to the value of $350,000 have been erected during the past year, and preparations have been made for even greater improvement next year. This, with constant transfers of real estate at rates which in cities many times larger than Seattle would seem high, show the perfect faith which the people feel in their town. Lots 60x100 in the business center of the place are frequently sold for $20,000 and upward, and one sale was made a few weeks ago at $32,000. The voice of energy is in the air, and every kind of business is highly prosperous. The territorial university, an excellent institution, is located here.

The natural wealth of King county, Washington territory, consists of coal, timber, iron and a fine body of agricultural and pasture land. The natural depot for the sale and shipment of the products of this region, and for the receipt and distribution of its supplies, is Seattle. Beginning near Seattle the rich valleys of the Duwamish and Cedar rivers extend east for fifteen miles. There is no better field for agriculture, stock raising and dairying anywhere than here. Beginning at the eastern end of this section, a fine belt of fir and spruce timber extends east twenty-five miles to Green river. Great deposits of the best quality of lignite underlie much of this timber belt, and at its eastern limit are fields of bituminous coal either. Further east and still in King county are inexhaustible beds of magnetic iron ore equal to the best found anywhere in the United States. This rich region is as yet but partly developed. The river valleys are settled and their annual shipment of farm and dairy produce is enormous. Their outlet is the Duwamish river, which is navigated by small steamboats. Three lignite mines have been opened and are connected by a narrow gauge railroad line with Seattle, where steam colliers receive their product and carry it to the markets of San Francisco and Portland.

But this development is but a beginning. The bituminous coal fields of Green river are the most valuable in the territory and the work of opening them is now in progress. Capitalists of Seattle hold large interests there; Chandler, of San Francisco, holds a large acreage, the Oregon Improvement company has secured a share and the Northern Pacific railroad company, by virtue of its land grant, is also the owner of several rich sections. The Northern Pacific people propose to open their mines at once, and with that view will the coming summer run a line of rails into the heart of the bituminous region. By the course of surveys made under the Northern Pacific direction recently, the people of King county are convinced that the proposed line will terminate at Tacoma and not at Seattle, the nearest deep water point from the mines and their natural point of shipment. They see that the Northern Pacific can by the use of lines to be built independently of this special line, put Green river coal into Tacoma cheaper than into Seattle, and they are convinced that it is the purpose of the company to consult its interests rather than theirs in the matter, a very natural purpose indeed. They believe that under the plans of the Northern Pacific the business of their mines will go to Tacoma and that even the products of the mines which they themselves may will be compelled to find shipment at a rival port. They realize also the possibility of disadvantage in shipping over the lines of a company like themselves engaged in the coal business; and in the spirit of self protection propose to build an independent line connecting the coal fields with Seattle. A line beginning at Seattle and extending forty miles southeast is contemplated and engineers who have recently examined the route report that such a line can be built for $500,000.

Of the amount necessary half must be expended in the work of grading and tieing and half for rails and rolling stock. D. O. Mills, the well known capitalist of New York and California, has engaged to furnish the latter if the people of Seattle will prepare the line for the rails, taking in payment the company's bonds at 8 per cent. The thing for the Seattle men to do is to raise the necessary quarter million and they have set about doing it. Stock books were opened a week ago and in three days one hundred thousand dollars worth of stock had been subscribed, and we are assured that the full amount will be speedily taken. The local company pledges itself to carry coal for all parties at a fixed and invariable rate and to deal without discrimination with shippers. The proposed line will pass through the river valleys and will carry their supplies and market their products. The wide timber belt between the agricultural land and the mines will afford log freights for half a century and the iron beds beyond the coal fields will, when developed, draw the line further east and add to its business, and at some future time the managers of the company contemplate extending their lines across the mountains into the Yakima country. They are confident that from the first day they accept business the road will pay a handsome profit, and in support of the claim, point to the fact that the road which now connects Seattle with the lignite fields paid last year a twenty-seven per cent. dividend.

The people of Seattle have gone into this enterprise with a good spirit. They see danger ahead and propose to avert it. They propose that the business of King county shall be done in their city and are not afraid to put their money into enterprises which will hold it there. This last enterprise is in keeping with their recent action toward the Northern Pacific. They have granted to that road right of way over public and private property on their city front, and given bonds to secure right of way along the Sound for the proposed line from Seattle to Tacoma. To secure the franchise across the city front it was necessary to buy out a stubborn wharf holder, and with admirable public spirit three gentlemen made the purchase from their private means. With the utmost energy the men of Seattle are pushing the town and its outside interests. Its business activity is proportionately equal to that of Portland, if indeed we are not surpassed, and heavy investments in ground and buildings show the faith which is felt in its future.

NEW TACOMA

Is the rival of Seattle and is situated on Commencement Bay, forty miles "up sound," or south. Its population is about 3000, having increased nearly one third during the year, and its merchandise sales for the year aggregate nearly $400,000. Permanent improvements in the town proper have been made during the year to the value of $500,000 and plans are made for a great improvement next year. Tacoma is finely situated for a sea port. Its harbor is deep and safe, and there is no obstruction of any kind between it and the ocean. As a local center it is equally well situated. The Puyallup valley, one of the richest in the territory, and the great hop section of the northwest, is tributary to New Tacoma, which is its place of market and supply. Fine coal beds lie in the interior adjacent to the town, and a railroad upwards of thirty miles in length connects New Tacoma with the Carbon Hill mine. To accommodate the great coal business the Northern Pacific Railroad Company is building expensive bunkers here.

The industries of New Tacoma are those of a growing railroad town. A furniture factory is the only special industry, but the trades are fully represented.

It now seems settled that the terminus of the Northern Pacific railroad on Puget Sound will be at New Tacoma. No formal declaration to this effect has been recently made by the management of the company, but circumstances which speak more emphatically than windy resolutions or grandiloquent announcements, very clearly indicate their purpose. Most important among these circumstances is one which has been commonly overlooked in estimating chances, namely, a provision of law that land grant [illegible] once fixed cannot be changed. The lines of the Northern Pacific have been fixed with reference to a terminal location at New Tacoma, and upon plats filed by the company in the interior office, it has already come into its land grant rights. A change of the terminal location would involve an extension of line without a corresponding extension of land grant, unless congress could be induced to further favor the company, which it is not likely to do. Some difference of opinion among lawyers exist as to the soundness of this argument, but the weight of judgment, supported by decisions of the interior office, sustain it.

Another indication of the purpose of the management of the company is the fact that they hold [illegible] areas of land which would be made valuable by the location of a city on Commencement bay. The Tacoma Land company, which owns the site of New Tacoma and the most [illegible] about it for [illegible] miles on either side, is an auxiliary of the Northern Pacific. Its managers, like other men, want to make money, and it is highly improbable that in this matter, [illegible] others, they will [illegible] the [illegible] of personal advantage. [illegible] which may easily be [illegible] in Seattle. [illegible] city, at least, in this state, [illegible] opportunities and of fair promise has been relegated to village [illegible]

[illegible] because of a grab-game policy on the part of the [illegible] holders. So far the policy of the [illegible] company has been liberal, and investment and improvements have been promoted by it. At New Tacoma, as at Seattle and elsewhere on the Sound, [illegible] may invoke Portland in the criticism [illegible] high prices are put on real estate [illegible] serve the purpose of speculative [illegible] are [illegible].

[illegible] New Tacoma [illegible]

Whether or not this advance will be permanent is a matter of private judgment, but capital is and successful men do not doubt it and already they are investing heavily.

[illegible]

Which is two miles down the bay from the new town, is but little more than a sawmill town. The great establishment of Hanson & Ackerson is located here, and it employs in one way or another nearly the entire population of the town. Its location is very pretty and the water in the harbor is deep. A government hospital is located here and it is proposed by Bishop Paddock, of the Episcopal church to establish a young ladies' seminary.

OLYMPIA,

Is the capital of the territory and one of its oldest towns. It is situated at the extreme southern part of Puget Sound, occupying a picturesque location on a little peninsula and surrounded by forests. The population of Olympia is about 2500, having increased 300 in the past twelve months, and the annual merchandise sales aggregate about $250,000. This trade comes from large farming settlements and from logging camps. Olympia is the point of shipment for the famous Totten inlet oysters and its merchants control the business, which brings about $[illegible] per month into the town.

Something less than a year ago a fire razed to the business part of Olympia and destroyed a half acre or more of the best business houses. In reviving from this stroke the business men of the town woke up. They put brick stores where wooden buildings had stood before, and when the improvements were done they were surprised to find that their adjoining real estate had nearly doubled. It is a curious fact that the fire was a great blessing to the town. It looks better and property holders assert that it had the effect of waking up the place which was fast going to sleep. Olympia has had its ambitions [illegible] and has gotten over it. It looks with amused impartiality upon the contest waging between Tacoma and Seattle and is content to be a prosperous local town. It is connected by a narrow gauge railroad with the Northern Pacific line. Olympia is destined some day to be a great resort. It has magnificent scenery, fine drives, fine boating space, good bathing grounds, clam beaches, etc., and salt water and fresh water fish and game of all kinds abound. And better than all these, it enjoys the advantages of a modified ocean air which invalids who suffer from the raw ocean climate, find agreeable and healthful.

TUMWATER

Is a mile south of Olympia, at the mouth of the Deschutes river, where by a series of rapids and cataracts it falls into the sound. Three grist mills, a planing mill and a wooden pipe manufactory are located here, and the population of the town is mainly made up of people employed about these establishments.

PORT TOWNSEND

Is another of the most important of the sound towns. It is located near its northern extreme, and is a port of entry. It has a population of 1500, of whom 500 have become residents within a year. Its merchandise sales for the year have been above $[illegible], and $120,000 has been put into new buildings. Port Townsend is the trading point for large agricultural settlements on the mainland and on several of the north sound islands. Its principal home enterprise is a new merchant saw mill, one of the establishments on the sound owned by resident capitalists.

Extensive iron beds lie near Port Townsend, and a company formed of Puget sound and California capitalists is proposing to work them, preparing to put in great capital and establish rolling mills. Inexhaustible beds of bog ore are found near at hand, and magnetic ore will be brought from Texada island, B. C., which belongs to the company. Forty men are now building a furnace which it is proposed to start up next summer, with a working force of 100 men.

SOUTHERN WASHINGTON.

There is much good country in Washington territory along the Columbia river. From the mouth of the river up to the Cowlitz river the country is rough and covered with valuable timber. Two large saw mills whose lumber cut is something more than a hundred thousand feet per day, and several salmon canneries whose business is set forth in other columns are located here. On the Cowlitz river there is an old and rich settlement which deals with Portland direct, employing three steamboats regularly in the trade. The bottom lands of the Cowlitz are highly productive.

From the Cowlitz a fine strip of bottom and foot hill land extends along the river to the Cascade mountains. The Lewis river country thirty miles north of Portland, is a fine section, which, like the Cowlitz, deals directly with Portland.

The city of Vancouver, located on the Columbia a short distance above the mouth of the Willamette, is one of the most prosperous towns in the territory. It has about fifteen hundred inhabitants and is the trading point for a fine farming country. The military post, just east of the city, is one of its interesting features.

New Year's Day was ushered in with a bright sun and not a [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

Taken all in all there never was a more prosperous [illegible] than the first day of January, in this [illegible]

Mark Lane Wheat Report.

LONDON, Jan. 1.—The Mark Lane Express says: [illegible] [illegible] London and provincial markets were very quiet during the past week, trade in foreign wheat only retail. Flour [illegible]. Very little business doing at [illegible] coast. Market sales of English wheat the past week 17,510 quarters at 40s 11d per quarter, against 33,427 quarters at 44s 3d for corresponding period last year.

San Francisco Markets.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1.—Weather: Rainy, with light [illegible]; rainfall yesterday 1.40 inches, including 4 inches of snow. Rainfall for the season [illegible] inches.

Receipts—Wheat, [illegible] ctls; flour, [illegible] qr sks; oats 140 ctls; potatoes, 673 sks; eggs, [illegible] doz.

Commercial Notes.

The approximate estimate of wheat on hand at San Francisco, January 1, was from 275,000 to 375,000 tons, considerable less than last year. Official figures place the exports of wheat for 1882 at 18.5 [illegible]. The wool product of the state was [illegible] pounds. The amount of coal imported was 815,[illegible] tons.

The coal trade of Portland is rapidly becoming an important factor in the city's industrial growth. No attempt was made to develop the trade until last year, when yards were opened and some systematic work done. The imports of coal before 1882 were small, seldom running over a few thousand tons. During the past year, however, nearly $200,000 worth of coal and coke was imported, over half of it from foreign ports. Many private families have begun its use, and the changes about to be made in all steamers of the O. R. & N. Co., preparing their grates for using coal, will create a very much larger demand during 1883.

Portland Produce Receipts

FOR 48 HOURS ENDING 12 M. JAN. 1.

98,014 ctls wheat, [illegible] bbls flour, [illegible] ctls oats, [illegible] the millstuff, 17 sks potatoes, [illegible] lbs wool, 4240 lbs hides, 23 pkgs butter, 150 doz eggs, 446 pkgs fruit.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

Notice to Mariners.

A red and black spar buoy has been placed on a small sunken rock off Point Monitor, Point [illegible] bears from it southwest by south, distance one-half mile. There is a channel, with three fathoms, inside this rock for coasting steamers. The buoy should not be passed nearer than fifty yards when running inside of it. The rock is visible only at extreme low water. The red, second class Nun buoy off New Dungeness has been moved north one-third of a mile into four fathoms of water. New Dungeness light house bears from the buoy south by west half west. It must be left on the starboard hand by vessels entering Dungeness Roadstead, or bound up the straits.

Shipping Notes.

Am ship Shirley and Am bk [illegible] sailed Saturday for San Francisco from Tacoma.

Br ship [illegible], from Hong Kong to Victoria, supposed to be lost, put into Batavia Dec. 12 with her rudder head gone.

Good weather on the bar has made a large hole in the list of vessels lying at Astoria.

Am ship [illegible], 1875 tons, is now unloading at Tacoma. She came from Philadelphia, having started from there on the 29th of July last, making the fastest time with the heaviest cargo of any ship yet visiting this section from the Atlantic coast. She brought 2500 tons of railroad iron, 200 tons of anthracite coal and 150 tons of [illegible], bolts and other smaller material used in railway construction. She has a length of 244 feet and depth of hold of 24 feet, and is in command of Capt. Edward Thatcher. The cabin and state rooms are exceptionally neat and commodious. She was built at [illegible], Maine, and more nearly resembles the Henry Failing than any other ship which has arrived in Tacoma. She will be about 20 days in discharging her cargo.

Am bk Kioto is lying at Flanders' wharf discharging assorted merchandise.

Am bk Elsinore is on east side, will have to enlarge her hatchway to take out boilers.

Am ship Henry Villard is at Albina discharging railroad iron.

Br bk City of Carlisle is at Central dock discharging ballast.

Am ship El Capitan grounded at Walker's island bar yesterday and will have to lighter part of her cargo.

Br ship Pendragon has taken on board a large [illegible] possible and will finish at Astoria.

Ger bk Fulda has taken on board all [illegible] out of [illegible] ders' dock for her and will drop down to Greenwich dock for more.

Br bk Eskdale is loading wheat at Columbia dock.

The following vessels in port are disengaged: Br bk Trevelyan, iron; Br bk Latterworth, iron; and Am ship Helicon, wood. Total tonnage 3125.

Astoria Shipping.

Am ship Wm. H. Starbuck left outward, Monday afternoon.

Br bk Zampa crossed out Monday morning.

Ger bk [illegible], 958 tons, from Wilmington, arrived in Monday afternoon.

Br bk Berwick Law, 726 tons, from Sydney, arrived in Monday afternoon.

Str Dixie Thompson arrived down with large [illegible] Monday at 11 A. M.

Weather clear, wind northeast.

The Fritz was among the vessels that went to sea Saturday afternoon. She is a German ship that lay here from the 5th of December till the [illegible]. She draws, when fully loaded, 26 feet. She could not go out in safety drawing more than 22. She sailed for Queenstown with a cargo 400 tons less than her carrying capacity. Tugs will not remedy the difficulty. The most powerful boats, the most skillful pilots are unavailing to take a vessel out unless the bar be smooth, a state of affairs that seldom occurs during the very season of the year that the wheat fleet desires to cross to sea.

Memoranda.

Per Am ship [illegible] left New York July 28, had light, variable winds in north Atlantic, and light N. E. trades, crossed the equator in [illegible] west, [illegible] days out, was 37 days from the equator to 50 deg. south on the Atlantic, had light variable south-east trades, and from 30 deg. south to 50 deg. south, continuation of westerly winds and gales; was 31 days from 50 deg. south in the Atlantic to 50 deg. south in the Pacific, with strong westerly winds and gales; from 50 deg. south to the equator in the Pacific was 27 days, with variable winds and light S. E. trades; crossed in 110 deg. west, 118 days out; from the line was 28 days to the bar; have been 8 days outside bar, passage 116 days. Vessels spoken—Lat. 8 deg. south, long. 31 deg. west, American bk R. F. [illegible], from New York for Hong Kong; at Cape Horn passed American ship Charmer, Oct. 11.

Per Br ship [illegible] left Liverpool 30th August, and on following day tug left off Tuskar. Wind S. S. W. blowing fresh and increasing on 1st Sept. to hard gale, lasting 17 hours. On 3d Sept. took departure from Scilly and had moderate S. W. winds to Madeira, which was passed on the 11th and on the following day took N. E. trades. Had moderate trades to 11 deg. N. lat., variable winds between N. and S. to 3 deg. N. lat., when S. E. trades were taken. Crossed the equator on 24th Sept. long. 29 deg. W., 28 days out. Lost S. E. trades in 19 deg. S. lat. and from thence to strait of Le Maire, had variable winds, mostly from the westward. Attempted to pass through the strait, but were prevented by strong southerly winds. After passing Staten Island had strong winds from S. W. and afterwards N. W., passing meridian of Cape Horn on the 29th Oct., 60 days out. Strong winds and gales between N. and W. continued until 17th Nov., when S. E. trades were taken in lat. 26 deg. S. long. 91 deg. W. Had fresh trades to the equator which was crossed on the 29th Nov. in long. 112 deg. W., 90 days out. N. E. trades from 10 deg. N. to 32 deg. N.; [illegible] very light and unsteady. Light southerly winds to 41 deg. N. and from thence variable winds and unsettled weather, arriving off the Columbia bar and receiving a pilot on the 18th Dec., 110 days from Liverpool.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN,

THE

Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast in the Treatment of

ALL CHRONIC & DIFFICULT DISEASES

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease. He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as Spermatorrhea, or Seminal Weakness, or Loss of Perfect Vitality. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring either directly or indirectly from some derangement of the sexual system, and on this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician, a shrinking from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit these diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down, and the hope of future usefulness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored. Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint, and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, [illegible] without fail.
